On Thursday Barri White won his appeal against his conviction for the murder of girlfriend Rachel Manning

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

BARRI White has spoken of his joy after judges quashed his life sentence for murdering 18-year-old girlfriend Rachel Manning.

Barri, 28, originally of Epsom Grove, Bletchley, was jailed in 2002 alongside co-defendant Keith Hyatt, 55, but on Thursday Appeal Court judges quashed the convictions on the basis of fresh forensic evidence.

Barri, his mother Sharon and Keith have spoken exclusively to MK NEWS about the case and what the future holds.

Rachel's disfigured body was found strangled in bushes at Woburn Golf and Country Club in December 2000, hours after a night out at a fancy dress party.

The case went nationwide three years after the pair were jailed, when BBC 1's Rough Justice uncovered new evidence and called for the convictions to be overturned.

At the Appeal Court last week ushers had to dust off the upstairs gallery to accommodate a crowd of supporters including family, friends and members from other "miscarriage of justice" cases. The pair were defended in court by Woodfines solicitors.

The court's decision was greeted by whoops of joy, along with tears, from the public gallery, where police officers and Rachel Manning's family also sat.

At 4.45pm on Friday, Barri was released from HMP Brixton, where he was jumped on by his family and friends, who threw him a welcome home party that night.

Speaking to MK NEWS on Monday Barri said: "I knew this day would come and it was just a matter of time."

"When you get released from jail the feeling you get when you're standing at those gates and the doors open is amazing."

"I'm still in shock and I keep asking people to pinch me."

"I'm happy because it's all over and I can't wait to get on with my life."

"Now I can go to my shop and buy cigarettes, have a beer or whatever I want."

Describing how she felt, Barri's mum Sharon said: "It's difficult to put into words. Inside my head I was screaming to everyone for years: 'he didn't do it!'."

'We want people in Milton Keynes to know the truth'

Keith Hyatt

"No one knows this man like I do so the relief was overwhelming that someone believed us."

Judges declared the convictions 'unsafe' and quashed them before the prosecution immediately moved for a retrial for both and this was then ordered by the court for Barri but not Keith.

Keith, who lived in Bedford at the time of Rachel's death, was cleared, having already served two-and-a-half years for perverting the course of justice. Barri was released home on conditional bail, having already served five years.

Keith said: "It's a weight off my shoulders now."

"We want people in Milton Keynes to know the truth."

The Crown Prosecution Service now has two months to decide if there is enough evidence to support Barri's retrial.

Because of the retrial, the detailed reasons for the Court of Appeal's decision cannot be reported.

Sharon, 46, said: "For every second he was locked up I felt as if I was locked up with him."

"Every time I look at him this side of prison walls my heart just jumps, I can't believe I'm looking at him."

"It's going to take him a while to adjust but it's going to be the best Christmas ever."

"Barri always believed this would end and he always said 'mum, I didn't do this'."

"My motto through this has been 'if the truth comes out so will Barri'."

By coincidence the nation was following the Barry George appeal which was being heard in the next court room and Sharon spoke with Mr George's sister after his conviction for murdering the television presenter Jill Dando was quashed.

"She said she was very pleased for us," said Sharon.

"She's another amazing woman who is fighting for an injustice."

Barri is now staying with his uncle in Wolverton but his bail conditions prevent him from seeing some of his closest friends.

However, he owes his early release to support from unexpected friends, including more than 5,000 who sent letters to a website dedicated to securing his freedom.

Barri said: "My cousin sent me e-mails from random people offering support after the Rough Justice programme."

"I was allowed to keep a video of the Rough Justice programme and everyone came into my cell to watch it, even the officers."

"I watched it at least 15 times and the support from the letters made a difference to me."

"In jail they told me 'keep your head high it's going to end soon'."

"I'm not angry, I'm still a young man, but it's still six years of my life. Now I hope justice happens and they find the person who did it."

"MK NEWS has been great for really following the case the whole way."

Barri is looking forward to play-

HOW WE REPORTED THE UNFOLDING STORY IN THE RACHEL MANNING CASE

December 17, 2000

March 17, 2004

March 16, 2005

March 30, 2005

Rachel Manning last seen alive leaving city nightclub

RACHEL Manning lived with her family at Caledonian Road, New Bradwell, before moving into shared accommodation with friends in the city.

She was last seen alive leaving Chicago's nightclub in Elder Gate in the early hours of Sunday morning, December 10, 2000.

It was the prosecution case at the original trial that Mr White and Rachel had gone on to the club after attending a fancy dress party to celebrate his mother's 40th birthday.

He was alleged to have strangled her after they argued and then called Mr Hyatt to help dispose of her body with his white Transit van.

However, Mr White insisted that he had left Rachel in Milton Keynes after the night out.

He said she had telephoned from a phone box, asking for a lift, but when he and Mr Hyatt drove into the town to pick her up, she was nowhere to be seen.

Mr White says he went out that night at least three times, searching for his girlfriend.

He phoned her flat to leave a message, but eventually went home.

In 2002 Mr White was jailed for life and Mr Hyatt was cleared of murder but found guilty of perverting the course of justice and sentenced to five years.

BBC axes show that helped to free Barri White and Keith Hyatt

TWO years after the pair's conviction the BBC's Rough Justice programme decided the case warranted further investigation.

Reporter Mark Daly fronted the investigation and kept in regular contact with MK NEWS throughout.

This newspaper made its own files on the Manning case open to the Rough Justice team and by May 2005 the chief constable of Thames Valley Police Peter Neyroud was flooded with letters urging him to re-open the case.

The White and Hyatt families have expressed their gratitude to the Rough Justice team as well as their sadness at the BBC's recent decision to end the show.

Keith Hyatt said: "Without the Rough Justice team we wouldn't be here."

"The fact that the BBC is axing a programme that got so many people justice is disgraceful."

Mr White's mum, Sharon Shaheed, said: "It's so important that someone believes you and they're willing to put their reputations on the line for that, as Mark did for Barri."

Speaking after the appeal hearing, Rough Justice's Mark Daly said: "What's happened today shows the importance of programmes like this."

"It just wouldn't have gone here without the programme."

"It's a tragedy for people like Barri who have been wrongly imprisoned."

"It's extremely disappointing that they've axed it - people will have no-one to turn to."

"However there will be some journalists like me who will continue to ferret away and find different ways of getting it on the telly. It's just going to be much more difficult."

'If the police are going to do a job then do it properly and if you make a mistake you've got to say we're really sorry we've made a mistake': Keith Hyatt

"They had to trust the police, who are here to protect us, but your trust disappears."

"I hope this pressures the police to find the real killer."

"We want to work alongside them to bring the killer to justice. Justice has to be done for Rachel otherwise all this will have been for nothing."

Keith added: "I've said to MP Phyllis Starkey that I'm not angry with the police but if the police are going to do a job then do it properly and if you make a mistake you've got to say we're really sorry we've made a mistake."

A statement from Thames Valley Police said: "The Force will now work closely with the Crown Prosecution Service to collate evidence which will be put before the court when Barri White's retrial starts."

After the original trial Rachel Manning's family said they felt 'sickened and angered by the defence for the notion that police had not conducted a proper investigation', and a police source told MK NEWS in 2004: "We felt it was a cast-iron conviction."

The Manning family declined to comment.

ing in goal for his new football team and going swimming with his friends.

He said: "It's so good to be able to do things again, things you don't think of, like chewing gum and using a metal fork."

"I've gone 'prison-pale' so I want a holiday somewhere hot now."

While the Manning family face a traumatic period of uncertainty, Barri's mother and Keith expressed their frustration.

Sharon said: "Rachel's family have shown dignity all the way through."

"We want what they want; we want the killer behind bars as much as they do."

"Rachel's killer is not Barri or Keith - I hope they know that now in their hearts."

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Not known at this, or any other, address

SIR – For several months I have been blocked in finding out where the main decision makers for the expansion of MK and the development of CMK live.

I have simply asked for the numbers that live in the borough but I keep being fobbed off even though my requests have been made under the terms of the Freedom Of Information Act.

Excuses include intrusion into personal files, too costly, too complicated, data protection. Surely, English Partnerships can get the information very easily?

I even wrote out a question for EP employees asking: 'where do you live?' Clearly, the answer need say no more than Milton Keynes and even a post code would have been sufficient.

What hope is there for MK if the people responsible for it do not know where they themselves live?

As for the plans to replace real green fields and cows with manicured gardens and no cows (not even concrete) in the west, now is the chance for us to campaign to alter the Genesis proposals that have been sold on to Gallagher who seem to think that consulting us over the colour of the roofs and not the threat of Blackpool illuminations on Watling Street is sufficient.

Well, it is not and we should not be patronised and our intelligence insulted.

I am happy to lead the call for changes and real consultation and with a banner of 'Red Card The Red Lights'.

Groups such as The Western Front also exist and are doing a better job at representing our interests than the local members of MK Council appear to be.

I can be contacted on bartlettts.stony@hotmail.co.uk and 01908 569686.

Paul Bartlett

Size is everything

SIR – The long-abandoned Parker Morris internal space standards for housing, designed to ensure that people could have sensibly-sized and attractive spaces to live in, are being revived by English Partnerships.

The new standard is to apply at once to all EP-promoted housing in England. This is excellent news and something that I have been urging for a long time.

English Partnerships are to be very much congratulated for taking this sensible step that will offer better designed houses for future generations.

More space in the home offers greater flexibility of use and will be more user-friendly. Within Milton Kenes Area 11 will be the first to see the application of the new standards.

Mrs Thatcher killed-off Parker Morris in 1980 with the result that housing built since then- executive

Bags going for weekly rubbish collections

SIR – It appears that we do not miss a week when someone is complaining about black bag waste collection – these people are obviously pro-bin.

Have they really thought this through?

I am quite happy with the pink recycling and black bag system as it is, so long as it remains a weekly collection.

I have one green bin for recycling garden waste and, although I am quite happy with this collection, I would not want three to four bins cluttering up my driveway.

I think that when multi-bins become the norm, that is when they decide to change from weekly to fortnightly collection, and the probability of fitting the notorious chip.

Also I'm sure that the Cory employees would not welcome the chore of collecting numerous bins from every individual house and replacing them from where they got them.

D R Armstrong
Crosby Court, Crownhill

homes excepted- have been built with room sizes that are mean in scale and sometimes virtually unusable.

No only does the UK underbuild in relation to housing quantity (ref the Kate Barker report) but when it does, quality-wise, it produces the smallest accommodation in Europe.

This is a disgrace. Building inadequately-sized housing is no great claim to fame for any well-off nation such as we are.

Also, as we are now being asked to 'cram-up' in terms of density, a very reasonable compensation is to increase individual dwelling sizes.

M O'Sullivan
Latimer, Stony Stratford

Dying with dignity

SIR – I have read your article on Violet Brooks, the elderly mother who took control of her life by killing herself, 07/11/07, and was horrified by the way in which she died.

I work for Dignity in Dying, the UK's leading organisation that campaigns to pass a legislation on medically assisted dying for the terminally ill.

We hear of many distressing stories, like that of Mrs Brooks, where people have chosen to take their own lives early through fear of being kept alive for as long as possible when they are in the last days of their lives.

Although Dignity in Dying campaigns for legalised assisted dying for terminally ill, mentally competent adults only, Mrs Brooks would not have been of sound state of mind to use it as she suffered from mental health problems.

It is a well known fact amongst healthcare professionals that many patients' biggest fear about the end of their lives is that they will be kept alive against their will and will suffer badly drawn-out deaths.

Terminally ill people as well as the elderly need more protection to ensure that deaths like Mrs Brooks' do not have to happen.

The introduction of the Assisted Dying for the Terminally Ill (ADTI) Bill in the UK will ensure that better protection is in place for patients at the ends of their lives.

It is often the peace of mind that the option is available to them that offers them the comfort and reassurance that they can go on living.

Jessica Tomlin
Press officer, Dignity in Dying, London

Don't miss the bus

SIR – Milton Keynes Council's decision at the meeting on November 13 to agree an all-party stance on public transport is a step in the right direction.

It followed an original motion proposed by Labour leader, Cllr Kevin Wilson whose commitment to bus transport in particular is respected across the political divide.

Public transport and bus transport across MK is improving – demands for fast track routes are being heard and acted upon. Demand is increasing, will increase further when people have access to real time passenger information at all bus stops and will increase further still as local town and parish councils market local bus (and train) services through local publications on a regular and consistent basis.

Sponsored by

Custom Glaze
Conservatory, Window and Door Centre • Est 1981

However, the one area where Cllr Wilson's original submission rather fell down was the way in which they were cast in what could only be described as pre 21st Century Industrial Revolution thinking – thinking about 'work' and the economy in 9-5 terms, thinking about 'work' in terms of somewhere nearby, operating in shifts.

Cllr Wilson fails to grasp the importance of the car for people in MK, most of whom have no realistic option other than to use a car to get to work, to shop, to take children to and from school.

MK needs a transport-based strategy that values the car in the long term – alongside the bus – that sees a role for taxis and transport interchanges, that has a vision for transport hubs as and where appropriate and which is relevant to post Industrial Revolution thinking and the way people actually live their lives.

Cllr David Hopkins
Conservative spokesman for transport and the environment

SIR – I would like to make a special appeal to your readers, to invite them to make a difference at Christmas by holding a special 'Christmas Cheer' event, in order to raise money for The Children's Trust, a national charity which provides care, education and therapy for children with multiple disabilities and complex health needs.

With the Christmas festivities fast approaching, what better way to start the celebrations by organising a get together with family or friends and, at the same time, help raise money for some special children?

To help you organise your very own special party, The Children's Trust can provide you with invitations, posters, leaflets, collection boxes and balloons.

MILTON KEYNES ROYAL VISIT 2007

What you need to know about the Queen's visit

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE Queen will see how much Milton Keynes has 'grown-up' when she visits next Thursday.

With the Royal Visit just over a week away the final arrangements are being made and key organisers have been giving their views.

John Best, chief executive of Milton Keynes Council believes the Queen will see a more mature city than when she visited in 1992.

Mr Best said: "I think the city has grown up and is more mature, more sophisticated – it is no longer an adolescent city."

Yesterday the Queen's route through the city centre was revealed.

When she arrives in Milton Keynes she will be greeted by Sir Henry Aubrey-Fletcher, Her Majesty's Lord-Lieutenant for Buckinghamshire.

Sir Henry said: "We hope that there will be an opportunity for The Queen and The Duke of Edinburgh to meet hundreds of community groups to see and be seen by thousands of Milton Keynes and North Bucks residents, both young and old."

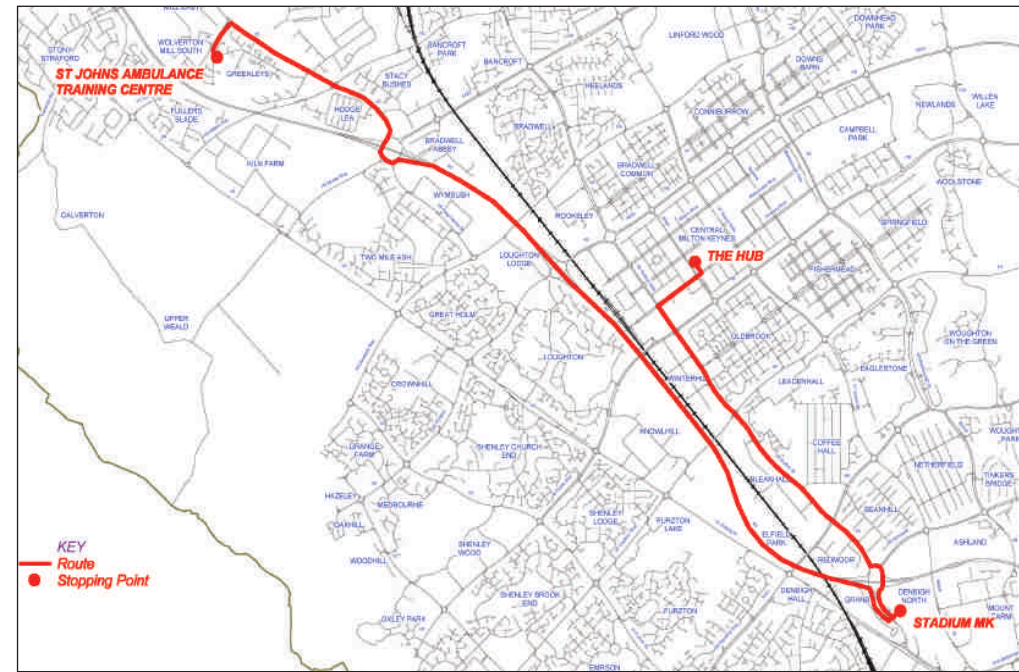

"The programme we have arranged for The Queen's visit seeks to capture the growing business community, the youthfulness of the town's population, the strong community and voluntary sector and the pride that the town has in its new focus around the MK Dons Football Club."

The council has announced there will be no public parking on the stadiummk site but parking is available for 500 vehicles at the National Bowl North car park. Blue Badge parking for disabled people will be available at the stadiummk for event ticket holders.

A free park and ride service will operate from the National Bowl to the stadiummk site from 9am and after the event buses will run from the Drop off point outside the stadium from 12.45pm.

With Midsummer Boulevard closed from 9.30am to 12.30pm between Saxon Gate and Witan Gate, there will be plenty of space for onlookers.

thecentre:mk joined Marshalls and Buckingham on the list of major sponsors this week, before announcing it will be giving away Union Jacks from the customer service desk from Monday.

Centre director, Robert Goodman said: "Her Majesty's visit brings huge prestige to the city we are all so proud to be a part of and thecentre:mk is delighted to be involved."

"We hope everyone will join us in waving the flag on this most exciting day."

So good they stole it twice

A STOLEN puppy was found by a city woman but taken minutes later by the same burglar.

The 22-week-old Staffordshire bull terrier, called Baby Girl was snatched during a burglary in The Close, Bradwell, on September 12.

When MK NEWS printed a photograph of the stolen puppy alongside a police appeal, one local woman recognised it.

The woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, was given the dog by a friend and called the police when she read the article.

But seconds after notifying the police she also called the man who gave her the puppy and he promptly drove to her house and took it away.

A police spokesman said: "We're still looking for the puppy and appealing for anyone who has seen it to call us."

"We know the person concerned but we haven't found the puppy so there isn't enough evidence."

"We think the dog has probably been given to someone else or sold."

Baby Girl is dark brown with white fur on her paws, white on her chest and a white spot on her tail.

Anyone with information can contact the police on 08458 505505.

Publisher breaks promise on roundabouts calendar

— but car park makes it onto 'best in Britain' despite being altered

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER 'white-knuckle ride' of a car park has forced its way onto a 2008 calendar of the best car parks in Britain.

But the multi-storey theatre car park that has shot to national fame no longer boasts the feature that got it there, following a 20 week refurbishment which finished in April.

Car park and roundabout enthusiast Kevin Beresford appreciated the car park for its 'integral chicane type ramps'.

They had to be removed due to the numerous accidents they were causing.

Mr Beresford, who visited the car park at the beginning of the year before the work had been done, said: "That's a shame, I quite liked the danger of those, it was like a little assault course trying to get round it."

"I remember there were all scratches everywhere where cars had scraped. I found it quite a challenge, a bit of a white-knuckle ride."

Despite a promise from Mr Beresford that a city roundabout would feature on the 2008 calendar of the best roundabouts in Britain, it has not happened.

Last year he said: "The committee just think that there are far superior roundabouts. But I am going to insist next year that we have a Milton Keynes one, and I'm not just saying that."

However for the fourth year running Milton

The September entry of the Roundabouts of Milton Keynes shows the traffic island near Hazeley

Reporter, soldier, cop and private eye bailed after court appearance

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER policeman, a private detective, a journalist and a soldier have appeared at court in connection with allegations of leaking information to the press.

Retired detective sergeant Mark Kearney, 48, from Wadworth Holme, Middleton, has been charged with eight counts of wilful misconduct in a public office.

Mr Kearney, who served 30 years in the force, appeared in the dock at Kingston upon Thames Magistrates' Court on Thursday alongside his son Harry Kearney and Milton Keynes Citizen reporter Sally Murrer.

Legal advisers told the magistrates that a trial is likely to last more than four weeks if the defendants plead not guilty.

Sally Murrer, 49, of Whipsnade Road, Kensworth, Bedfordshire, stands accused of three charges of aiding and abetting misconduct in a public office.

Harry Kearney, 20, a soldier from Waterbeach Barracks, Cambridgeshire, is charged with one count of aiding, abetting, counselling and procuring misconduct in a public office.

He also faces a charge of possessing four ecstasy tablets.

Bailed: Harry Kearney, father Mark Kearney and reporter Sally Murrer leaving Kingston upon Thames Magistrates' Court

Derek Webb, 53, a private detective from Springfield Crescent, Harpenden, Hertfordshire, faced five charges of aiding and abetting misconduct in a public office.

No details of the charges were read out in court and no pleas were entered.

Mark Kearney was given bail on condition he surrenders his passport, does not apply for any international travel documents and reports to Leighton Buzzard police station each day from Monday to Friday.

The other defendants were released on unconditional bail.

The case will be sent to Kingston upon Thames Crown Court on Monday for a preliminary hearing.

City schools are sitting on £7million in unspent cash

COUNCILLORS are divided over proposals to redistribute surplus school cash.

In Milton Keynes around £7million was left sitting in schools' bank accounts at the end of the 2006/07 tax year.

This is part of £1.7 billion currently unspent in schools' accounts across the country.

The Government was considering asking local councils to claw back five per cent of all reserves at the end of each financial year to redistribute them among other schools.

However, it has dropped the plans after a recent consultation.

Cllr Sandra Clark, cabinet member dealing with schools at Milton Keynes Council, is disappointed.

She said while she applauds schools that manage their finances appropriately, throughout Milton Keynes there are schools facing financial difficulties.

"It is interesting to note that schools in challenging areas, those with children who have disabilities or English as an additional language, are the schools with deficit or declining budgets," she said.

"We believe that the time has come for Government to acknowledge that every child matters, not just those who can achieve academic excellence."

"The Government must ensure that councils are empowered to use the money not just wisely, but fairly."

The council was due to discuss the issue at a meeting last night. Conservative councillor Andy Dransfield submitted a motion against the proposals.

He called for the council to congratulate the schools which have prudently invested their reserves in order to deliver larger projects which require saving over a longer period of time.

Prison officers brave cell fires at Woodhill

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A SPATE of cell fires has seen four prison officers taken to hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

Three fires took place at Woodhill Prison during October and one at the end of September.

Each is estimated to have caused £5,000 damage.

Alan O'Brien, segregation officer at the prison, has dealt with three cell fires in the last five months, one of which caused him to spend a night in hospital.

This fire, like most at the prison, was started by an inmate using clothes or paper.

The prisoners are allowed to smoke in their cells under the new smoking laws, but not in communal areas.

"This fire was particularly bad as the prisoner was using his inhaler to accelerate the flames," said Mr O'Brien, "when we looked into the cell the flames were up past the observation panel in the door."

Three staff members went to hospital as a result of this incident.

Prison governor Luke Serjeant said: "Few people in the community realise what a difficult job prison officers do.

Prison officers Alan O'Brien and Alison Pocock outside Woodhill

"Many of the men we lock up are difficult to manage, sometimes dangerous and often suffer from mental health problems.

"Cell fires do not happen every day of the week, but when they do they can be very serious and the staff who deal with them have to act quickly and with courage to protect the health and possibly the lives of those involved."

"These officers don't get the recognition that the police, fire and ambulance services get but in my view they are heroes and heroines doing a fantastic job on behalf of the community."

So far this year six prison officers have been admitted to hospital suffering from smoke inhalation caused by cell fires.

This is despite efforts to protect staff by installing cell inundation points – a lockable hole in every cell door – which are used to put a fire hose through and douse the fires without opening the door.

John Hewison, fire officer at Woodhill said the prison is constantly looking to improve equipment and renew training and procedures to tackle the problem.

This month the prison saw a 13 per cent improvement in its fire safety audit, an annual report which was conducted last week by an external fire safety expert.

The prison received a 73 per cent rating, up on its previous score of 60 per cent.

Ian Bickers, head of security and operations, added: "Where an arson has taken place we will prosecute where we can and if we can recover the costs of the arson we will."

Who will deal with your affairs and welfare if you can't? Don't lose your right to choose your Attorney by waiting until its too late.

From the 1st October 2007 the Enduring Power of Attorney (EPA) has been replaced with a revised type of power called a Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA). However, EPAs made prior to 1st October will continue to be valid.

The LPA has now replaced the EPA as one of the most important legal protection mechanisms for your future. Indeed having an LPA in place is just as important as making a Will because it affects you during your lifetime. The benefit of the LPA is that it will allow you and your family the certainty of knowing who will deal with your affairs and personal welfare if you become incapable of making decisions about these things yourself. Moreover, you will have the comfort of knowing that the Attorney dealing with your affairs is the person of your choice and not someone whom the Court chooses to appoint on your behalf.

Unlike the EPA, an LPA will need to be registered with the Court of Protection before it may be used by your attorney (s). A person can make two types of LPA.

A Property and Affairs Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) allows you to plan ahead by choosing one or more people to make decisions on your behalf regarding your property and financial affairs.

You can appoint a property and affairs Attorney to manage your finances and property whilst you still have capacity as well as when you lack capacity. For example, it may be easier for you to give someone the power to carry out tasks such as paying your bills if you find it difficult to get about. Please note that the document has to be registered before it can be used.

A personal Welfare Lasting Power of Attorney allows you to plan ahead by choosing one or more people to make decisions on your behalf regarding your personal healthcare and welfare.

As you can see the protection offered by an LPA can be invaluable. Please contact us today to see how we can help.

Colossus catches code in cracking challenge

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A CODE-CRACKING computer that hasn't been used since Winston Churchill ordered its destruction in 1945 is back in action at Bletchley Park.

The top-secret Colossus machine was the world's first programmable digital computer, developed at Bletchley Park during World War II to crack encoded German messages.

Last Thursday it deciphered a teleprinter message transmitted by radio from Paderborn in Germany.

The challenge was to crack the code, encrypted by one of the original Lorenz cipher machines used by the German High Command during the Second World War, before the Colossus decoding machine did.

But a German computer fanatic beat them to it, managing to crack the code using his own modern software before the transmission even reached Bletchley Park.

The Paderborn transmissions were eventually intercepted at Bletchley Park by two groups of amateur codebreakers.

One group used modern equip-

Colossus: On public display at Bletchley Park. Above: Tony Sale

ment and PCs and the other used Second World War technology.

The event was a celebration of the successful rebuild of Colossus and the start of a fund-raising drive for the National Museum of Computing.

Tony Sale, a founder of the emerging museum, spent four years on the rebuilding project.

He said: "Witnessing Colossus Mark II in action is a chance to relive and admire the historic break-through made by Bletchley Park code breakers during World War II."

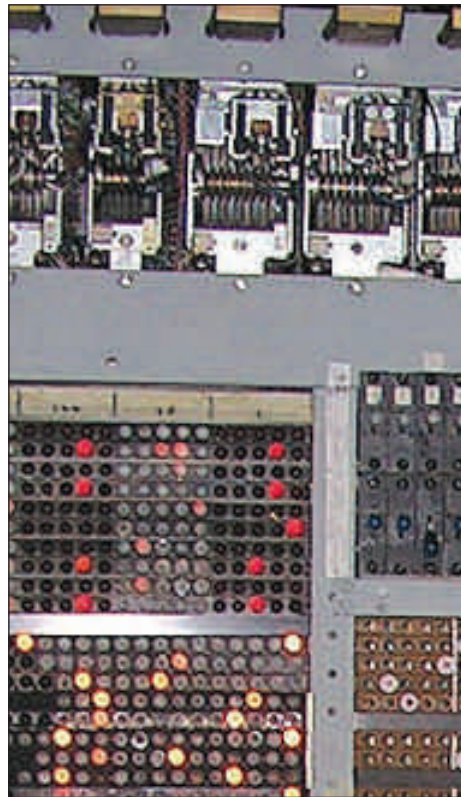

"We believe the legacy of the code breakers, who paved the way for modern-day computing, should be seen, treasured and admired by everyone."

Now the machine is on display at Bletchley Park.

Previously, the machines were so secret that their existence was kept from the public for 30 years. Churchill ordered them to be broken up into 'fist-sized lumps' and buried. Eight met their fate in this way while two survived.

Army members transported the last remaining Lorenz SZ42 machine to the Heinz Nixdorf Computer Museum in Germany in October. Eventually it will be returned.

Make the news in MK

MK NEWS and thecentre:mk have teamed up once again to offer visitors to Santa's Grotto a wonderful memento.

Any family that visits Santa in his Toad Hall Grotto this Christmas can purchase a special photograph of themselves with Santa, printed out as an MK NEWS mock front cover in the Wind in the Willows theme.

Since the Grotto opened on November 6 people have travelled from as far as Cornwall, Wigan, Manchester, Cardiff and Ipswich.

There are three ways to book to see Santa: call 0870 890 2606, visit www.thecentremk.com or call in at the Boathouse Ticket Office in Middleton Hall near Mothercare at thecentre:mk.

Meanwhile, as our picture shows Badger appears to have taken a liking to MK NEWS too. See if you can spot him reading his favourite local paper at thecentre:mk.

Decision close on wind farm

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@hotmail.com

THE debate rages on over plans to build a wind farm near Emberton, as a council decision looms.

Milton Keynes Council has finally set a date to discuss the proposals, which were submitted in August 2006. They include plans for seven turbines on Petsoe Manor Farm, near Emberton.

The plant would produce enough electricity to power up to 9,000 homes and could reduce CO2 emissions by 36,300 tonnes a year – equivalent to taking over 13,000 cars off the road.

A group known as Bucks Renewable Energy and Environment Society, or BRES, launched in April to support the plans.

But anti-wind farm campaign group BLEW argues that Milton Keynes is in an area of low wind speed which means the amount of energy generated from this site will be very low.

It claims the plant will make little difference to local energy needs and the 125m turbines will ruin views across the open countryside.

The council's development control committee is set to decide whether to December date for turbines proposal approve the proposals on December 17.

James Townsend, senior development manager at Your Energy – the company behind the scheme – said: "The studies we have done over the past few years have shown that it is a good site for wind turbines and if there is going to be a wind farm in Milton Keynes, this is the best site available."

"We are the windiest country in Europe, if it wasn't windy we wouldn't be putting up a wind farm."

"I accept that some people don't like the look of wind turbines but surveys consistently show that more than 80 per cent of the population see them as a positive addition to our landscape."

If granted planning permission Milton Keynes Wind Farm would be operational in 2009.

The decision was delayed to allow the applicant to supply additional information requested by the council.

Simon Says and so they did

A NEW world record was set at Sir Frank Markham Community College on Friday for the most people playing Simon Says at once.

Students, teachers, pupils from local primary schools and community groups joined forces to get 1,318 people taking part.

MK Dons, MK Lions and even some police officers were involved.

According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the previous record for the largest number of people playing Simon Says was 1,169 set in Scotland in 2006.

The challenge was held in aid of BBC's Children in Need.

Local businesses showed their support with the Hire Centre and Hollywood Music both volunteering their services and equipment.

Mike O'Mahony, headteacher at Sir Frank Markham, said: "It represents the culmination of activities during our enterprise week. As well as being great fun, we hope that this challenge will strengthen the links we have with our feeder schools and give the children a sense of pride in what they have achieved."

Former failing school now top class

Since being labelled a failing school four years ago, the Radcliffe in Wolverton has come on in leaps and bounds. ALICIA BABAEE spoke to the headteacher to find out how SITTING in headteacher John O'Donnell's office, it is impossible to tell that there are five classrooms above us, each with a lesson in full swing.

Not a peep can be heard from the pupils.

But I'm told things haven't always been this way.

In November 2003, an Ofsted inspection carried out at the school deemed it to be failing to give pupils an acceptable standard of education.

It was put into 'special measures' which meant additional outside intervention would be used and regular checks from Ofsted would be carried out.

For two terms, an interim headteacher stood in.

Then Mr O'Donnell was brought in, and in 2005 the school was pleased to be taken out of special measures following two years of hard work.

But the graft doesn't end there.

Mr O'Donnell said: "Nothing is possible on your own. There have been lots of people involved.

"When there are over 1,000 students, the impact any one person can have if the message is not spread and shared is nil."

It is not the first time Mr O'Donnell has helped to take a school out of special measures. He previously did the same for one of the city's special schools, Slated Row.

One of the first things Mr O'Donnell did on being appointed, was to repaint the classrooms and hallways which were a colourful mish-mash of colours.

He said: "We wanted to engage the youngsters and give them a sense of pride.

"I am immensely proud now of the total lack of graffiti, there is none."

He also introduced a new school uniform, replacing their scruffy polo shirts with smart blazers.

He brought in a house system, giving the children a greater sense of identity and encourage healthy competition between pupils.

Mr O'Donnell said: "This school wasn't going to change without desire from the youngsters themselves.

"What we really want to do and are trying to do is raise the kids' aspirations. There is a world beyond Wolverton and we're getting through to them that what they are doing now has an effect on what they want to do later."

The school now uses a vertical tutoring system, whereby tutor groups contain four children from each year instead of grouping together pupils from the same year group.

And the tutors aren't just teachers. Mr O'Donnell himself, the school secretary and the librarian all have tutor groups which gather for 20 minutes each day.

Mr O'Donnell said: "It's an idea or a philosophy I really liked."

In addition to that, reading partnerships are being set up between young

'What we really want to do and are trying to do is raise the kids' aspirations': John O'Donnell headteacher at Radcliffe School in Wolverton pupils and sixth formers and changes have been made to the curriculum to make options more modern.

There has been a 7.4 per cent improvement in pupils getting A to C grades in GCSEs. And this year three business students were in the country's top ten for their GSCE.

Their PE results have gone up from 30 per cent of people getting five A-Cs to 65 per cent, and Mr O'Donnell is hoping it will be granted specialist sports status.

Last year both young MPs were from the Radcliffe and there is even a student on the school's governing body.

When Mr O'Donnell started at the school, The Radcliffe was on the Department for Education and Skills' hit list for poor attendance. Now it is off the list, and attendance levels are at 94 per cent.

The school has a 'direct alternative to exclusion' room used instead of suspending pupils. Some children would not benefit from formal exclusion, and up to eight children can be taught in the room which is divided into cubicles.

In the last academic year, only two pupils were formally excluded.

It is anticipated that the regeneration of Wolverton and consequential new building at the school will improve The Radcliffe further yet.

Mr O'Donnell said: "The new building will be the final piece of the puzzle and a fresh and new start for the school."

All along, the team has worked with Milton Keynes Council.

Mr O'Donnell added: "We are on the road to recovery

"I want massive improvements for the future of my school. We want to be a 24-hour extended school with specialist sports status.

"I am not happy that that's the end of the journey, it's the start. There is no room for complacency."

Pole pleads guilty to killing his best friend

A POLISH man living in Milton Keynes has been jailed for five years after pleading guilty to stabbing his best friend to death.

Michal Rozynek, 22 of Conniburrow Boulevard, Milton Keynes had originally pleaded not guilty to the murder of 20 year old Lucasz Rozanski on Feb 24 this year.

He stood trial at Luton Crown Court but the jury failed to reach a verdict and was discharged.

The prosecution had intended to have a retrial, but on Thursday Rozynek was back at the same court and pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

The prosecution accepted that plea as an alternative to the charge of murder.

The victim died from a single stab wound which penetrated his heart at his home in Porthleven Place, Fishermead, MK where a party was being held.

Arguing had broken out when someone teased Lucasz,

Death scene: Porthleven Place in Fishermead wrongly, that he was gay because he was wearing a pink shirt. Such a remark is regarded as very offensive in Poland.

Rozynek, who had been drinking heavily and smoking cannabis said he got a knife to stop the arguing but his friend challenged him to stab him. He admitted he was holding the knife at the time but claimed at his trial that the victim grabbed his arm and stabbed himself in either a suicide attempt or an act of self harm.

Niall Quinn QC defending said; "The deceased was his best friend, they saw each other every day and had arrangements to take a joint trip to Poland this year.

"He had no intention to kill him or cause him any harm at all. He thought getting the knife was a good idea to abate the argument that was raging. In sobriety he realised it was a very foolish thing to do.

"His friend said 'come on stab me' which was repeated several times and the defendant gestured towards him knowing he had the knife in his hand merely to encourage him to stand back and go away."

He said it was then the single fatal wound was inflicted unintentionally.

Sentencing him Judge John Bevan QC said: "You stabbed your best friend to death. What possessed you to do that, I dare say, you do not even know yourself.

"In the cold and sober light of day you bitterly regret what you did. You will have his death on your conscience for the rest of your life.

"I take into account that there was a lack of intent or premeditation, but I am utterly convinced that suicide was the last thing on his mind that night.

"By your guilty plea today it follows that you were not being wholly frank in your evidence to the jury."

Chippie's cancer death

A CARPENTER who worked at the House of Lords and Scotland Yard died after coming into contact with asbestos.

Fifty-four-year-old Nigel John Cook, from Orchard Way, Stoke Goldington died on Saturday November 10.

The self-employed carpenter/joiner was diagnosed with mesothelioma, a type of lung cancer primarily caused by exposure to asbestos, in October 2006.

He was treated with chemotherapy in February but he died at an address in Mill Street, Newport Pagnell.

An inquest into his death, which was opened last Friday (November 16), heard that he came into contact with asbestos during a three-year apprenticeship at the start of his career.

Prior to his death Mr Cook, who was born in Kensington, London, had begun legal proceedings against his employers during the apprenticeship, building firm Holland, Hannen and Cubbitts Ltd.

The inquest was adjourned until February 2008.

Gangs and fatties on Youth Cabinet agenda

YOUTH gangs and obesity were among the hard-hitting issues discussed at the first meeting between members of MKC Cabinet and their youth counterparts.

The cabinet and young people came together to discuss issues high on the local and national agenda, which also including transport, in particular health and safety and overcrowding on school transport.

With 15 people round the table, including the young cabinet members aged 13 to 19 and chaired by Georgina Cross, they discussed a wide variety of issues at the Civic Offices.

Georgina, 15, said: "It was interesting to find out about what the cabinet does. I think both cabinets learnt about the problems each of the age groups face and I feel positive that we all want to change aspects of these problems. Overall it was a very positive meeting."

The MK Youth Cabinet will be meeting regularly to discuss issues of concern to local young people, to get a full understanding of all young people's views, help adults understand young people issues, promote the positives of young people and inspire them to engage and to be consulted on Milton Keynes issues.

Council and cabinet leader, Cllr Isobel McCall added: "It was very refreshing to hear the views of these young people and I hope we will be able to take action on some of the issues they raised."

"It was shocking to hear of the discrimination that some of them face just because they are young or because of the way they dress."

Being a member of the Youth Cabinet gives the young people involved a chance to meet other local young people and go on fun trips as well as taking part in training sessions, the first of which is understanding children's rights.

The Youth Cabinet is led by the young people themselves with support from youth workers from Milton Keynes Council. Anyone aged 13-19 years can join.

Recruitment takes place in school and through links and staff support in agencies such as youth councils, school councils, young carers and Connexions:MK.

Matt Barnaby, youth participation worker in Milton Keynes, said: "It's great to get the Youth Cabinet up and running and we'd like even more young people to get involved."

"We're always looking for new members to join the cabinet so if anyone is interested in joining please get in touch."

The Youth Cabinet meets at The Point, Central Milton Keynes, twice monthly.

Great outdoors: Dons defender Keiran Murphy cuts the ribbon at Hazeley School to open the new playing fields

Kick-off for sports fields

PUPILS at Hazeley School have access to rugby pitches, football pitches and athletics tracks for the first time since it opened.

Dons defender Kieran Murphy went to the school on Thursday to be among the first to try it out.

The fantastic new outdoor facility incorporates rugby pitches, football pitches and athletics tracks.

It has doubled teaching space, bringing purpose-built design labs, workshops and science labs as well as a new drama studio and IT centre.

Head teacher Iain Denning said: "The pupils are absolutely delighted to have their own playing fields at last. We've been unable to have a single home game of football or rugby since the school opened.

"In fact, I think we were the only school in the country with a rugby team and no grass. This is going to make an enormous difference to the provision of PE in the school."

The IT centre will allow independent learning for 100 children.

Hazeley is now bidding to become a Specialist Science College but to achieve the specialism the school must raise £50,000.

Pupils, parents and teachers have been busy with money spinning events to meet the target.

Mr Denning said: "We feel science has a massive role to play in the future of Milton Keynes.

"It is a key skill for the economic well being of the city.

"We are not producing enough scientists in this country and there is a dearth of pupils studying the subject at higher level. With our fantastic new science labs at Hazeley we really want to play our part in focusing on science and producing Britain's future scientists."

'Thumbs up' for battered chippie

Shocked fryer from Broughton wins top regional shop award

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

A FISH and chip shop owner who narrowly escaped death when he received a huge electric shock at his own shop, has had his chippie crowned the best in the region.

Broughton Fish and Chips on Tanfield Lane battered off stiff competition to be named the best chip shop in central and south England.

The news comes just a month after owner Stephen Wilding was rushed to hospital following the electric shock.

Council officers are still investigating what happened.

The surge entered his body through his thumb and came out through his left nipple, missing his heart by an inch.

But now the takeaway is in the running to become the best fish and chip shop in the country in the Fish and Chip Shop of the Year competition run by industry body Seafish.

It will compete against nine other hopefuls.

They will all be assessed on their commitment to building a healthy and viable future for the industry, as well as ensuring the highest standards of product quality, service, cleanliness and innovation.

Father of four Mr Wilding, who spent a week in hospital and now faces a series of skin grafts at Stoke Mandeville burns unit, said: "To receive recognition as best in the region is an amazing achievement."

"I am incredibly proud of my staff for working so hard to maintain our high standards of quality and service. It is great for our loyal customers to know that they are eating the best fish and chips in the region."

Doctors will take skin from his upper arm and use it to reconstruct the tip of his thumb.

Speaking exclusively to MK NEWS at the time of the incident he said: "The doctors say I am lucky to be alive."

"My survival was put down to my personal fitness – I put that down to a healthy diet of fish and chips – and running."

Liverpudlian Mr Wilding, who is in his 40s, and his wife Deborah opened the shop in April this year.

Phil MacMullen, head of environment for Seafish, said: "It's encouraging to see so many fish and chip shops now paying serious attention to creating a sustainable future for the industry."

"The quality, hygiene and customer service standards are improving every year and these shops are setting a fantastic example to not only to their fellow fish and chip shops, but the food industry as a whole."

The winner will be presented with the champion's crown by Ainsley Harriott in January.

Queen to see new academy model

THE Queen will be among the first to see a model of the city's new academy.

A model of the new £22m school is being unveiled to Her Majesty as part of her visit to Milton Keynes on November 29.

Sponsors of the new academy, Edge, will be displaying a scaled down version of the fantastic new facility during the royal celebrations at stadium:mk.

Ten pupils who have contributed towards the design of the academy will be at the event with the model, and will then join in with stadium celebrations with pupils from many other schools in Milton Keynes.

"It's a wonderful opportunity for us to unveil the new design at such a high profile event," said John Kerr, development director at Edge.

"Her Majesty will be the first to see the concept behind the outstanding design which is extremely forward thinking. This will be a landmark building for the city."

The new academy will replace Sir Frank Markham Community School and is due to open in September 2009. It will cater for 1,550 pupils and will specialise in business and enterprise with an emphasis on practical and vocational learning.

"The design of the building is extremely important in ensuring we deliver first class education facilities for the 21st century," added Mr Kerr.

Hoping for a grey day: Spice Lounge manager Sham Ali

Cheers for a white Christmas

BY ALICIA BABAE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

I'M dreaming of a white Christmas... because if my dream comes true it's free booze all round.

Spice Lounge is taking a gamble by making a bold offer of free drinks for everyone in Milton Keynes if the city sees snow fall on Christmas Day.

Bookies odds are currently at 5-1 compared to last year's 8-1.

Scientists say the warmer autumn weather is setting this year's festive season up to be snowy, increasing the chances of a picture December 25.

If it happens, anyone who goes to Theatre District venue Spice Lounge the day after Boxing Day will be treated to a free glass of wine or bottled beer by the management.

Spice Lounge spokesman, Anfor Farooque said: "We're just over a month away but already the celebrations are starting and people are getting into the Christmas spirit."

"We wanted to add a bit of excitement to this year's festivities and give our customers the best reason to party ever."

"If a single flake of snow falls from the sky on Christmas Day and it is officially declared a white Christmas, we will give each of our customers free drinks on December 27."

The last time London officially had a white Christmas was in 1999.

Although only a few flakes fell on the Metereological Office roof, it was officially declared a white Christmas. Back then the odds were 50-1.

To receive your snow drink at Spice Lounge you need to cut out and keep this article and present it at the door on December 27.

Care advice for Lakes pet owners

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PET owners in the Lakes Estate are to be offered animal care advice and discounted micro chipping.

As part of the RSPCA's Community Animal Action Week local officers will team up with volunteers to visit homes in the Lakes Estate from Tuesday November 27 to Saturday December 1.

Neutering vouchers will also be provided.

Community Animal Action Week is in its second year after helping more than 2,800 animals in eight other areas in 2006.

The Lakes Estate is one of eight areas chosen across the East region, as it is particularly busy for the RSPCA on a day-to-day basis.

Visits will be carried out between 9.30am and 5pm each day.

RSPCA staff will also be available to microchip pets and give animal welfare advice at the Lakes Estate Community Centre in Fern Grove.

They will be there between 9.30am and 5pm on Tuesday November 27, Wednesday November 28 and Friday November 30, from 9.30am to 8pm on Thursday November 29 and 9am to 1pm on Saturday November 31.

The service is free, but anyone receiving help is welcome to make a small donation towards the charity's costs.

Students at Leon Schools and Sports College have also been informed of the event.

Rob Skinner, RSPCA chief inspector for Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire, said: "The Community Animal Action Week is a great opportunity for people to receive help with caring for their pets."

"Last year it was received with so much positivity by the local residents involved that we decided to make it an annual event."

"The sole aim is to provide assistance for anyone who needs it and to prevent animal welfare problems from occurring."

"We don't want to surprise anyone with our visits and are trying to let as many people know in advance so they can take advantage of this unique initiative."

The first 10 people to bring a copy of this week's MK NEWS to the community centre on Tuesday November 27 will be given a free microchip for their pet.

City closer to getting a uni

MILTON Keynes is even closer to having its own university.

English Partnerships has just given a £2.1 million cash boost so that the chosen building at 200 Silbury Boulevard can be refurbished.

The South East England Development Agency (SEEDA) has granted £248,000 towards the cost of equipping the University Centre.

It follows a £4.8 million injection early in the year to acquire the University Centre premises.

Although final plans are not in place, it is believed the university will make use of IT to allow distance learning.

The Open University will act as the main lessee for the building.

A consortium of higher education partners including Milton Keynes College and Milton Keynes Partnership have agreed on a governance model for the University for MK (UMK).

It aims to keep city students here instead of going to university elsewhere, to forge strong links with local businesses and to develop new enterprise ideas for Milton Keynes.

John Lewis, regional director for English Partnerships, said: "We are delighted to assist in bringing a new University Centre to the city."

"It is a fantastic opportunity for Milton Keynes and we look forward to working with our partners to progress plans for the future."

The building will contain offices and teaching space.

Milton Keynes College will lead the initiative and will be working with English Partnerships to project manage the refurbishment process.

Additional funding will be sought from the Higher Education Funding Council for England as well as other sources.

Rob Badcock, principal and chief executive of Milton Keynes College said: "This is great news for the students of Milton Keynes, present and future, and while the schedule is challenging, the college aims to open the University Centre Milton Keynes in September 2008."

Fire dog Barney gets a sniff of Crufts glory

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babae@mk-news.co.uk

THE city's fire investigation dog Barney has qualified for world-famous dog show Crufts.

His big break follows obedience trials in London with his handler Kerry Burns.

Barney, a black collie cross with a white chest and white feet, helps investigate fires which are believed to have been started deliberately. He has been trained to sniff out anything that an arsonist might use to start a fire, such as petrol or lighter fluid.

Kerry, who picked him up as a puppy from South Bucks RSPCA in 2002, said: "I'm so delighted, it's a massive achievement for him."

"Who would ever have thought that he would go on to do this?"

Kerry and Barney joined Buckinghamshire Fire & Rescue Service's fire investigation team in December 2006.

He will take part in Crufts from March 6 to 9 2008 at the National Exhibition Centre in Birmingham.

Dogs have a superior sense of smell to humans. They can detect the presence of flammable fuels with greater sensitivity and accuracy than electronic equipment.

They can also search a large area quickly and efficiently without disturbing other important evidence, and reduce the time an investigator spends on excavating and sampling fire debris and the number of samples required for expensive forensic testing.

Barney wears special boots to protect his feet when he's working, and a reflective harness and line.

The boots protect his paws from being cut by sharp things including nails, wood and broken glass.

The harness tells him that he is working, helps Kerry keep track of him and allows her to attach a search line to make sure he is safe and can be stopped from going into areas that are too dangerous.

Barney is also used to search an area after an arsonist has left the scene. If the arsonist has left evidence behind, such as a petrol can in a bush, Barney will find it and police can then fingerprint it for DNA.

When he picks up the vapour given off by a suspicious substance, Barney indicates its location by pointing at the source with his nose.

Kerry then rewards him for a successful find, and a sample is taken away for forensic laboratory examination.

Barney lives at home with Kerry, a member of Buckinghamshire Fire & Rescue Service's community safety team, and her partner Bryan Tones, who is also a firefighter. When Barney retires he will remain with them for the rest of his natural life.

He is sponsored by Reading-based Aquadoggies, a hydrotherapy pool for dogs. Owners Andrew and Carol Dicker supply Barney's food.

Paws for thought: Fire dog Barney is off to Crufts

Mums and dads are lifesavers

ALMOST one hundred Milton Keynes mums, dads and carers became lifesavers after learning resuscitation techniques at a safety workshop.

More than 150 people went along to the BabySafe workshop last Thursday where they learnt essential lifesaving skills, including what to do if a child chokes, how to resuscitate a baby, how to check for meningitis and car seat safety.

The free two-hour workshop at Kenthill Park Training and Conference Centre, Timbold Drive, Kents Hill, Milton Keynes, was organised as part of the BabySafe campaign, which is being run by The Royal Life Saving Society (RLSS UK) and Tesco. The campaign is supported by popular television celebrity Dr Hilary Jones.

It was organised after recent research revealed that six out of ten parents would not know what to do if their baby was in a life-threatening situation.

Kingfishers tell tale of river and canal banks

KINGFISHERS are thriving in Milton Keynes.

According to the latest reports in the British Waterways annual wildlife survey, 12 kingfishers were spotted in the area.

Kingfishers are small unmistakable bright blue and orange birds. They fly rapidly, low over water, and hunt fish from riverside perches, occasionally hovering above the water's surface.

As well as the iconic blue birds, budding Bill Oddies across Milton Keynes discovered a total of 146 creatures along the waterside, which is an increase of more than 50 per cent on the numbers recorded last year.

More unusual 'spots' included water voles, grass snakes, terrapins, and bats.

Ecologists pinpointed neighbouring Leighton Buzzard along the Grand Union Canal as the best place to spot kingfishers and other waterside wildlife.

Mark Robinson, national ecology manager for British Waterways, said: "We are delighted to hear of so many sightings of kingfishers on our waterways. As well as being a strikingly beautiful bird, kingfishers are an important indicator of the general health of the waterway ecosystem, as like the big cats on the African plains, they are at the top of the waterway food chain."

"Good populations of kingfishers even in urban areas show the important role waterways have in greening our towns and cities by providing wildlife corridors which help sustain populations of a variety of both common and endangered species including bats, water voles and otters."

2,000 see international stars lay on a goal fest

MORE than 2,000 spectators packed into Planet Ice to see an array of internationals battle it out on a carpet football pitch for the Masters Home Nations Championships.

The festival of mini football was fully embraced by the crowd who were rewarded with 35 goals in 245 minutes of play.

MK Dons manager Paul Ince captained an England side which also include Lee Sharpe, Nigel Spackman and Nigel Winterburn while Ally McCoist, Neville Southall and Mark Kinsella, who was crowned player of the tournament, all turned out for Scotland, Wales and All-Ireland respectively.

Each six-a-side match lasted 16 minutes with six games taking place in the group stages and it was All-Ireland and England who went through to the final.

Owen Coyle netted a hat-trick to help All-Ireland beat England 6-4 and collect the Home Nations title for the second time.

As a warm up for the tournament the MK Media Tarts beat the Dons Staff and Supporters 5-2 with MK NEWS' reporter Rob Gibson netting the fourth.

Don't miss out on further education

IF you want to stay on in full-time education after 16, there are lots of courses to choose from BUT now is the time to do it.

You may be able to study at your own school's sixth form, the sixth form of another school, or at a sixth form college and there are plenty to choose from in and around Milton Keynes.

You should start applying for popular or specialist courses in the Autumn term of Year 11.

You need to decide which subjects you want to focus on, and where you want to study.

Whatever you study, there's financial help available

To get the most out of studying after the age of 16 (known as 'further education'), it's important to take time to choose the right courses and qualifications.

There are a few things you can ask yourself:

■ What you are good at, and what you enjoy - most people do better when they study a subject they like

■ Whether you want to learn something new - for many courses, you may not need any previous experience

■ If the course structure will suit you - do you prefer end of year exams, continual assessment or a mixture of both?

■ If the learning style will suit you - do you prefer lectures, classroom discussions and/or practical workshops?

■ Where the course will lead does it fit in with your long term plans?

■ If you prefer a practical approach to learning, have you considered a work-based training option like an Apprenticeship?

You could study for academic qualifications such as AS or A levels, or go for work-related qualifications such as BTECs, City and Guilds and OCR Nationals.

You can also take qualifications in Key Skills these are the essential skills that employers look for.

Many of these qualifications can also help you get into university or higher education.

You also need to think about how your choices of what to study will fit in with your career plans.

Once you've thought about what you want to study, and the type of course that would suit you, it's time to find out where you can study.

You can choose from a school sixth form, a sixth form college, a further education college or a specialist college.

Each type of institution has its own structure and atmosphere, and will offer a different range of subjects and courses.

Sixth forms vary a lot in size, and in the courses and facilities they offer. Sixth form colleges tend to be larger and more informal than school sixth forms.

Further education colleges can offer similar courses to sixth form colleges. They also vary a lot in size, and in the subjects and facilities they offer.

Your fellow students may include adults of all ages as well as young people.

Some further education colleges specialise in particular areas:

subject areas such as art and design, agriculture and horticulture, or dance and drama courses and support for students with a particular disability or learning difficulty.

You can apply to more than one sixth form or college. Many colleges let you apply online through their website, or you can contact them for an application form.

For other courses, you normally apply in the Spring.

You do not normally need to apply if you want to stay on at your school's own sixth form.

All schools and colleges publish their prospectus as a free booklet. It describes the facilities and the courses on offer. Many prospectuses are now available online.

One of the best ways to find out what a school or college is really like is to go to an open day/evening. You will get to see the facilities, and meet the staff and some of the students.

You can get advice from your current teachers, parents/carers, friends, relatives or your Connexions personal adviser at school.

You can also speak to a Connexions Direct adviser for free, confidential advice.

Connexions Direct helpline: 08080 013 219

Whatever you study, remember that you could qualify for help with study costs through the Education Maintenance Allowance.

Time to sign up for a new skill or hobby

THERE has never been a better time to learn a new skill.

Milton Keynes offers a wide range of adult education courses to suit your needs.

Whether it is to help improve your future work prospects, brush up on your basic skills such as maths and English, learn a new language or how to work a computer or simply for a new hobby, there is something for everyone.

There are almost a million courses available in the UK, so there's bound to be one to suit your needs.

You can either choose to make a regular commitment, or learn whenever it suits you. You can choose the times you want to learn, day or evening, part-time or full-time, and how long your course lasts – whether it's for a few hours or over several years.

e-learning makes use of technology and allows you to fit learning around your life. You can learn on the move or at home and exactly when it suits you.

If you are disabled or have learning difficulties all colleges will have a 'disability statement' which sets out how the college can help you.

Many adult learning courses take place in further education colleges and learning centres. This may suit you if you prefer working in a classroom and like the idea of studying alongside other adults.

A prospectus provides detailed information about a college or learning provider.

Many prospectuses are available online or you can contact your local college to get a free copy.

There may also be leaflets about specific courses.

Colleges often hold open days or events, and sometimes take part in exhibitions or fairs with other colleges. At an open day you can:

For free and impartial advice on courses to suit you, you can call the learndirect advice line on 0800 100 900 (freephone).

Lines are open from 8am to 10pm, seven-days-a-week.

When put on the spot, does your English hold you back?

You want to help them with their homework, but can you? If you'd like some help brushing up on homework of your own, a learndirect English course can help. You can study at a learndirect centre, at home or anywhere you have access to the internet. And if that works out, you'll find yourself with a new qualification.

We can also help with Maths. To find out more, simply pop into your local centre or call 01908 261204 for a free information pack.

MILTON KEYNES GALLERY

Pascale Marthine Tayou
- Plastik Diagnostic Until January 13, 2008

Through his installations, drawings, films and performances, Pascale Marthine Tayou articulates the nomadic existence of his life.

For his first solo exhibition in the UK, Tayou shows a selection of work that questions cultural and national identity and the role of the individual.

As a self-described foreigner and traveller, his work is directly influenced by the drama that he witnesses on the streets and is manifest in the personal artefacts he collects, including train and airline ticket stubs, restaurant and shop receipts.

Two major works in the exhibition, Wall Street and Jpegafrica/Africagift refer directly to Africa and its countries.

The first is a wall-based installation of neon signs and logos of hundreds of national and multi-national companies that permeate the Cameroon landscape.

Jpegafrica/Africagift is made up of every flag of each African country arranged in a large pyramid pile.

Marthine Tayou does not see himself as an African artist however his work is bound up with the cultures and communities of Africa and its identity within the rest of the world.

Rather than seeing the continent as one that is consistently needy, Tayou attempts, to provide a different view of Africa, one that has a people and culture that is valuable.

He is also doing an outside gallery called plastic bags using brightly coloured plastic bags found on location transforming the mundane into the spectacular.

SAVING MY FACE

KT Tunstall

YOU know what? If KT Tunstall had released this as the trailer for the album instead of Hold On, she'd have been onto a winner.

See, Hold On sounded like an extension of the stuff she released off of Eye To The Telescope, but this is a very different beast.

For example, this is much better. It's a 'we're just going to take things down a little' sort of song, in that only one end of the musical register is employed and it ain't the one with the high-pitched notes.

This is a real departure from her usual fare, and I actually rather like it. So there.

TEDDY PICKER

Arctic Monkeys

IT'S difficult to know what to say about this one.

It's typical Arctic Monkeys fare, upbeat, fairly loud, lyrics referencing Duran Duran's Save A Prayer, and miles better than their last single. Erm, and that's it really.

ROCKSTAR

Nickelback

I DON'T think I've ever heard Chad Kroeger sound as cynical as this before, and considering he's The Most Earnest Looking Man In Rock, that's quite an accomplishment.

Let's not forget, he also sang the musical horrors that were Hero and How You Remind Me, so this is little short of amazing.

It's basically a slow to mid-paced driving rock tune, but don't let the tune fool you into thinking this is some happy cheerful driving rock track, because Mr Kroeger's got a story to tell and by heck he's going to tell it.

It's the story of a bloke (quite possibly all-American) who's unhappy with his lot and wants to improve things, so he reels off a list of what he wants, however because he's a bit too old to leave lists lying around for Father Christmas, he resolves to achieve all these things himself, and so he tells you what he's prepared to do (cutting his hair and changing his name amongst them).

Basically, it's the heart-warming tale of a man who's willing to sell his soul for fame and fortune and Peruvian marching powder. It'll all end in tears but considering this is Nickelback's first ever decent single, who cares?

TOUCH ME LIKE THAT

Dannii Minogue vs Jason Nevins

PREVIOUSLY known as (You Make Me Feel) Mighty Real by Sylvester, if you're over 30.

The tune's been lifted directly from the ancient disco number, all they've done is beef it up a bit for the discerning 21st Century school disco-goer, write some new lyrics and wheel in the other Minogue to sing them.

TIME

Rumble Strips

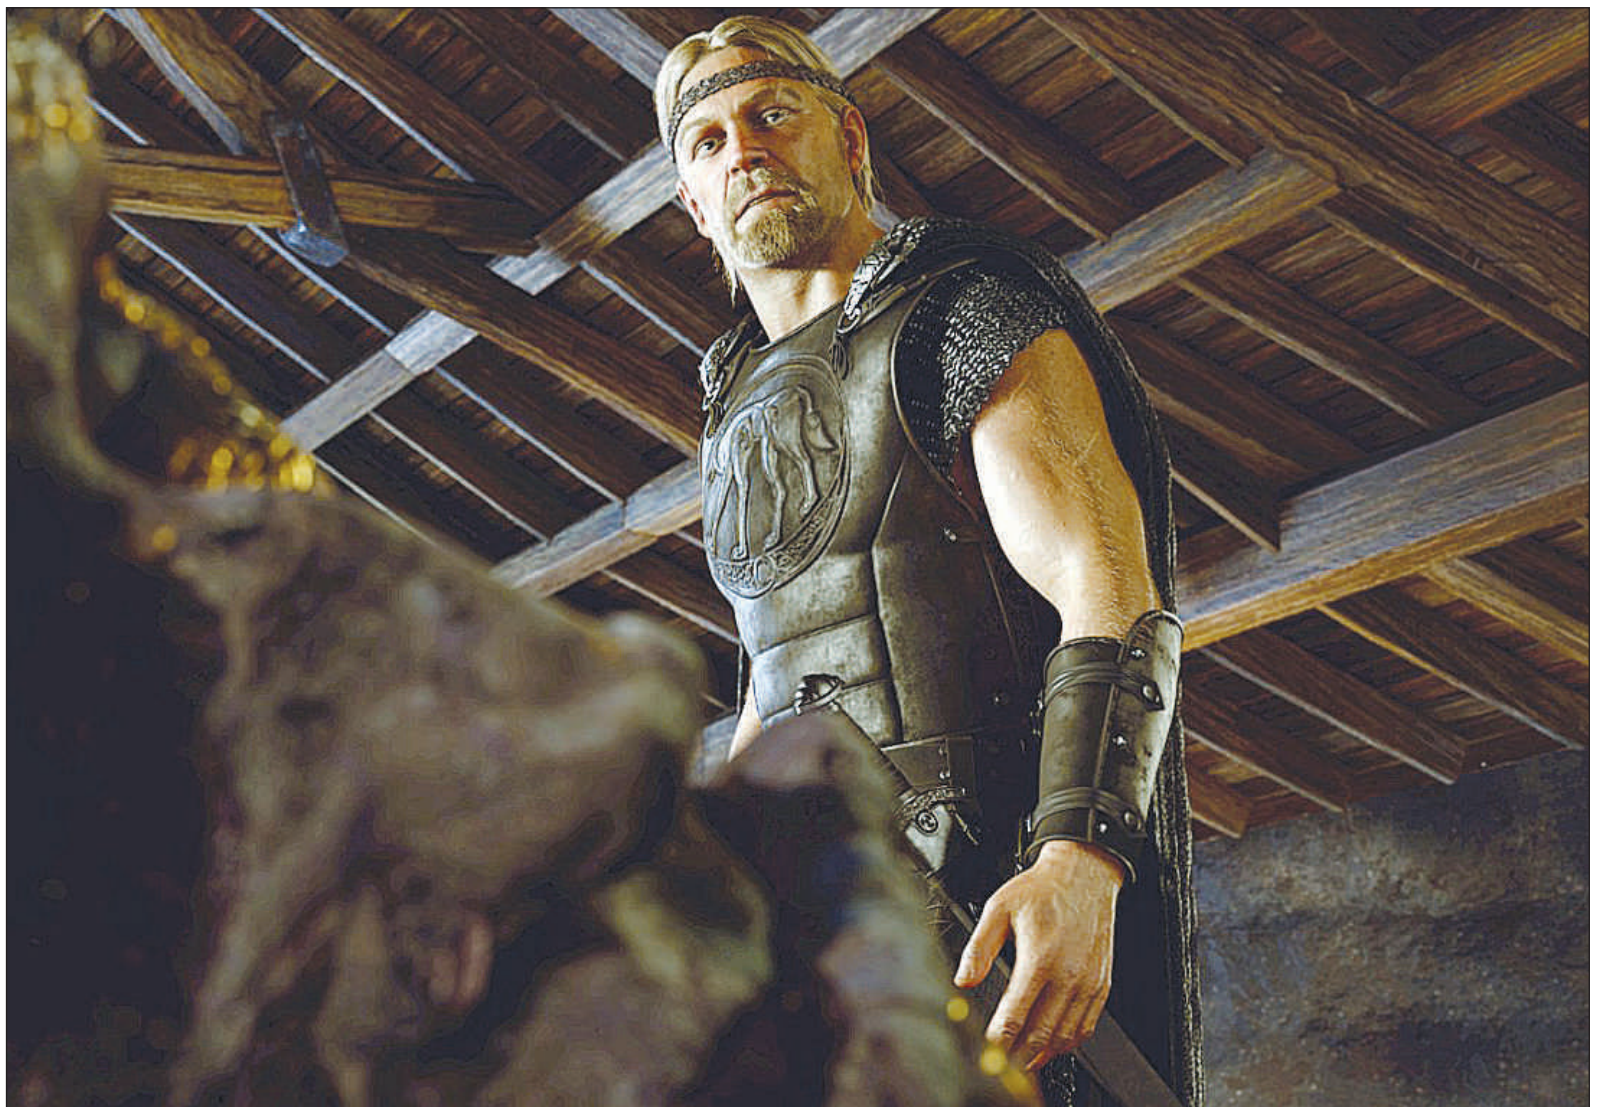

ANY band that can make a saxophone sound good must be doing something right, but this really isn't my preferred style of music (it's not electronic for a start). However, for some reason I can listen to this without wanting to break things, and that has to be seen, and heard, as a good thing.

CONDUCTOR PASSES ON THE BATON

STONY Stratford-based photographer Karen Parker provided the original image that inspired Hockcliffe based artist Cathy McCartney, to capture a portrait of Hilary Davan Wetton

The magnificent framed oil painting was presented to Hilary at a farewell dinner with the Orchestra's patrons and friends, to mark his departure as principal conductor of the Milton Keynes City Orchestra.

The orchestra's chairman Simon Cuthbertson praised the enormous contribution that Hilary had made to the foundation and development of the Milton Keynes City Orchestra.

The orchestra soloists Peter

Wright on trumpet and pianist Roy Tipping paid a musical tribute to Hilary and the Patrons and friends gifted the marvelous portrait.

Hilary said: "I was touched to have so many old friends at my farewell dinner and my portrait is a noble and wholly unexpected gift.

"I hand on 'my' orchestra to Sian Edwards and our new president Lady Thompson with the greatest confidence.

The orchestra has made a real contribution to the growth of Milton Keynes and it deserves and requires support both of its Patrons, local businesses and of Milton Keynes Council. I am proud of what we have achieved and excited by what can be achieved in the future."

Portrait artist Cathy McCartney, chairman Simon Cuthbertson, Hilary Davan Wetton and artist's agent Liisa Clarke

Being a gentleman, he goes through with the marriage. Being a neurotic comic genius he spends the next decade trying to decide who is the real love of his life.
Using his dilemma as inspiration for a series of Broadway hit comedies, he soon manages to turn everyone's life upside down.

STABLELIFE

Funk all night, but don't tell Yo Momma

THE man famed for teaching Michael Jackson how to moonwalk is coming to The Stables.

Soul, dance and funk legend Jeffrey Daniel of Shalamar will make his Stables debut on Tuesday, December 4,

The force behind hit records such as A Night To Remember, Friends, There It Is and I Can Make You Feel Good will be performing with his seven-piece band at Milton Keynes' leading live music venue in support of his new album release.

Launching a solo career as a singer songwriter, guitarist and West Coast dance icon earlier this year, Jeffrey will also be performing original work from the new album.

He will also be showing off the street dance moves that have hypnotised UK audiences.

The Moonwalk debate is still an ongoing topic generating tremendous interest all over the world with over 10,000 entries on YouTube and 1,300,000 on Google alone.

On stage JD is one of the hottest live acts around – funk, soul and fancy footwork fused to make you funk all night – but don't tell Yo Momma!

LAS IGUANAS

Tel: 01908 251040

Review by David Gale

A LITTLE piece of Latin America tucked away in the city centre, Las Iguanas has not been open for long but it has quickly developed a reputation for good food and good vibes.

Myself and my partner tried a lunch there recently.

For starters we decided to share a selection of tapas. Three dishes are £12, or five for £20, before 6.30pm.

We had Bolinhos (£4.50) a delicious mix of Brazilian cod, potato and parsley fritters with a hot chilli salsa, Albondigas (£4.20) freshly made traditional beef meatballs with nutmeg, coriander, raisins and Parmesan served with a salsa picante and Seviche – a mix of yellowfin tuna and crayfish marinated with fresh mango, citrus juices, red chillies and salad.

For a main meal my partner had the chicken and bell peppers enchilada – a big full plate full of rolled and filled tortilla smothered in red chilli sauce, melted cheese and soured cream with rice and refried beans. This was good value at £8.70. I chose the grilled seabass (£13.50)

The generous portion of flame-grilled fish, excellently presented, comes with your choice of patatas bravas, mixed salad or Cassava fries. Plump for the fries, you will not be disappointed by these chunky Columbian delights, which taste like no chips I have ever had before.

The fish is also served with rice and a choice of salsa criollo or chimichurri sauce. I chose the latter, an Argentinian pesto – lovely.

To be truthful, for a lunchtime there wasn't room for a dessert but that didn't stop us.

My partner chose the chocolate banoffee pie (£4.50) which was everything you would expect, a rich and creamy experience.

I opted for a Brazilian-style sticky chocolate tiramisu called Pave, forget the diet and have this dessert it's made on the premises and it's gorgeous.

The bar does a fantastic array of beers, wines and cocktails including its own special Caipirinhas, which you have to try at least once, and the mojitos are, in my opinion, the best in the area.

There are lunch and early evening offers to take advantage of too until 6.30pm daily, a main course is £6.50 and two courses £7.50.

Drop a dress size for Christmas and you could look like this

“I dropped 3 dress sizes in just 6 weeks”

I liked all the wrong foods especially crisps and nuts, and my weight kept creeping up and up. I wasn't happy being a size 18 but crash dieting only made me put on more weight.

I had tried a slimming club, but didn't like the group element and their food plans didn't fit in with my social life.

When SureSlim got the results of my blood test, it confirmed that I had high levels of glucose in my system, which made me more hungry than I should have been, subsequently I was over-eating. SureSlim then drew up a food plan based on what would work for me. The first week I struggled, wondering how I would cope without milk in my tea, but by week two I wasn't even thinking about it.

I've not just lost the weight either – I've also lost the overwhelming feeling of tiredness that I used to have.

I was comfort eating as I was stressed in my job and the weight just crept up. That's when I realised I had to do something. Once I started on the plan to my amazement I lost 10 pounds in the first 10 days!

And now I've reached my goal weight in time for the party season – so I can happily wear my little red dress!

£28m deal signed for second stage at Dons' stadium

Clydesdale Bank is backing Inter MK on stadiummk expansion

THE next stage of stadiummk's development is set to accelerate after Inter MK signed a £28.52m financing deal with Clydesdale Bank in Milton Keynes.

The funding will enable Inter MK to start work on a four-star 172 bedroom hotel, restaurant, and leisure and retail units.

The plans also include the addition of a further 10,000 seats in order to meet UEFA 4-star standards, which will allow major European and domestic games as well as international football matches to be hosted at the stadium.

It is hoped that the second phase of the development will be completed mid 2009.

Inter MK originally approached

Clydesdale Bank following a recommendation from The Arena Coventry Limited, after Yorkshire Bank (Clydesdale's sister bank in the UK) helped finance construction of the Coventry Ricoh Arena.

David Mills, business partner at Clydesdale Milton Keynes said: "Clydesdale Bank is delighted to have won the banking mandate for the Inter MK Group and to assist with the next stage of the development of stadiummk.

"We are committed to supporting the stadium and the sporting community of Milton Keynes, and have also become an official football club partner, supporting the Milton Keynes Dons with their 'Football in the Community' initiatives."

Four-star hotel, restaurants and retail units planned together with 10,000 further seats

"MK Don's chief executive, Pete Winkelman, and all those involved with this venture have shown tremendous vision, enthusiasm, commitment and ability in producing a superb stadium, and we are excited to be associated with its future development and to be an official stadium partner."

Pete Winkelman added: "Clydesdale is a bank that understands our property, leisure, sport and entertainment business and our need for the Milton Keynes Dons to be at the centre of our activities.

With Clydesdale's help we will continue to develop our business and aim to match the growing ambition of Milton Keynes and the South Midlands region.

THECENTRE:MK is top of the shops for community, environment and health & safety

Market leaders in the property industry in sustainability and health and safety, Hermes Real Estate has singled out thecentre:mk as the best performing property in its £12 billion portfolio of offices, retail and industrial property – winning the 'Responsible Property Investment Specific Property Manager of the Year 2007'.

thecentre:mk led the scoreboards of both the risk and safety and the community and environment categories to win the highly regarded award.

thecentre:mk also won the 'Risk and Safety Management Best Retail Initiative 2007' for its new emergency plan, beating the competition from asset management teams at Cushman & Wakefield and DTZ.

Robert Goodman, centre director at thecentre:mk, said: "We are delighted to accept these awards, which show the strength and dedication of the team working at thecentre:mk to ensure our shoppers and staff are safe and secure, to do our best to protect the environment and to give something back to the local community.

"A lot of the schemes and initiatives that have led to these awards are the culmination of years of work across the centre management team on projects designed not to win awards but to improve the quality of our shopping centre and the town centre of Milton Keynes, although the awards are a welcome recognition of this hard work and I have no doubt that they will inspire the team to continue to excel."

Ambassador Lisa finds a new 'voice' after free Ambassador training

A pioneering scheme to help people access training in the most deprived areas of Milton Keynes has gone from strength to strength.

Learning Ambassadors, which is funded by Routes to Success, set up by MK College and is run in partnership with ACE, gives free training and support to people who want to act as a 'voice' within their own communities.

Project co-ordinator Yvonne Prosser said: "We work with people who are already doing a great job in helping their friends and neighbours where they live. After training, they are given the skills to go back out into their community to encourage others to take advantage of training – to learn everything from language and numeracy to ICT."

The course enables the Learning Ambassadors to help signpost prospective students to a wide variety of provision within Milton Keynes.

Since launching in February this year, the Netherfield-based scheme has worked with people involved in a wide variety of projects ranging from volunteers at St John Ambulance, an African women's lunch group and drop-in centres.

Learning Ambassadors receive an afternoon of training for eight weeks, and can achieve a Level 2 Community Skills Work qualification.

One of the women who has really benefited from becoming a Learning Ambassador is Lisa Bailey from Bradville.

The 35-year-old mother of two was a volunteer with Connect MK, a project to help disadvantaged local people gain access to technology.

"I was doing my bit for the community, but wanted to progress and didn't know how. I went on the course and loved it," she said. "I was with people from all walks of life with different experiences and we shared ideas and problems. It was also a lot of fun."

"If you are stuck in a rut it really opens up your way of thinking and shows you what opportunities there are for you."

After taking part in the scheme Lisa felt more confident about her role within Connect MK, and has gone on to win a contract for paid consultancy work. She has also been offered a part-time job as a supervisor with the Learning Ambassador scheme.

The next course is already fully booked, but a waiting list has been started for future courses.

■ For details call Yvonne Prosser on MK 608581.

MK MOTORING

Honda's CR-V is a right little toe and tow

DO you know what the most disquieting thing about compact 4x4s is? The nagging sense of dishonesty.

All too often these vehicles are trying to portray a rugged image when, for the most part, they're utterly hopeless as soon as the tarmac runs out.

In the real world, the most owners will actually want to do is to haul a trailer or get out of a muddy carpark.

And Honda, more than any other car maker, is a company that lives in the real world, designing its products to suit.

The latest car to benefit from this rather refreshing approach is the third generation CR-V.

Here's a model which, though still able to deal with towing and slimy surfaces, for the most part concentrates on providing what most compact 4x4 owners really want: a more pragmatic and useful on-road package.

Discussing the suspension of a compact 4x4 might seem a strange way to kick off but take a look under the CR-V and you'll spot independent suspension all round with a multilink rear set-up.

The centre of gravity has been dropped by fully 35mm and Honda claims to have benchmarked the best family hatchbacks in its class (rather than other 4x4s) when it comes to handling.

Forget the cumbersome roly-poly road manners and ponderous ride quality still common to some cars in this class. The CR-V, priced from £18,827, has been engineered to be pin sharp straight out of the box.

This matters. It matters because, if you're honest with yourself, you never take small 4x4s off road anyway.

It matters because it means you're not trying to portray some sort of lifestyle you don't have.

And, above all, it matters because the CR-V now corners more crisply and safely than ever before and, despite the best efforts of the Romans, our roads tend to be very twisty.

The CR-V can handle gentle off-road tracks thanks to its four-wheel drive system but think of this as an all-wheel drive equipped car rather than a 'proper' 4x4.

The system has been tweaked a little to direct even more torque to the rear wheels when the front wheels start slipping. This is actually more handy if you're planning to use the CR-V in bad weather conditions or on an Alpine skiing jaunt.

Two engine options are available. The petrol powerplant is a 2.0-litre unit based on the 1.8-litre i-VTEC petrol engine found in the Civic range, in this instance pumped up to produce 150bhp.

It'll get to 60mph in a respectable 9.9 seconds if you choose the manual transmission, the five-speed auto model lagging with an 11.9 second showing against the watch. Peak power arrives at a nosebleed 6,200rpm, so you'll need to rev this thing to make progress and if you're loaded down with people and gear, the modest 190Nm torque figure may well prompt you to look at the diesel engine.

This is the celebrated 2.2-litre i-CTDI diesel good for 140bhp but with a generously stuffed 340Nm of torque.

If you're planning on towing anything, look no further than this unit.

Andy Enright

Speed rush: The Honda's 2.0-litre i-VTEC petrol engine produces 150bhp and will get to 60mph in a respectable 9.9 seconds

Colin Cameron slides in on Jordan Hadfield in the 3-3 draw with Macclesfield

CHESTERFIELD are the next side who will try to topple the league leaders this Saturday. But MK Dons beginning to pick up the momentum that was briefly halted by defeat to Stockport last month it is difficult to see them slipping up.

This clash is always a close one with the last four meetings resulting in three draws and one win for the Dons.

If Chesterfield are to take something from the match then their key man will be Jack Lester, the former Nottingham Forest striker has scored six times in three games including a first-half hat-trick against Lincoln.

The official in charge of the game will be Phil Joslin, he will be familiar to Dons fans as he was the man in charge for the Carling Cup clash against Sheffield United earlier in the season.

Joslin has refereed 15 games this term and has handed out 48 yellows and one red.

Jude Stirling returned to training this week following a shoulder injury that has kept him on the sidelines but the game could be too soon for the utility man.

Stirling featured in a training game against Crawley alongside Luke Howell and loan signing Jordan Hadfield, who will be hoping to play some part in the match.

GILLINGHAM stand between MK Dons and a place in the Area Finals of the Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

After overcoming Peterborough United and AFC Bournemouth the Dons now have a promising chance of reaching the final stages.

But first they face the tough task of travelling to the League One side and knocking them out of the competition.

The tie will be played the week beginning January, 7.

MANAGER Paul Ince has pinched Jordan Hadfield from former club Macclesfield on a one-month loan deal.

The 20-year-old midfielder, who worked under Ince for the Silkmen last year, has been drafted after struggling to cement a regular spot this season.

Town boss Ian Brightwell said: "He is still very much in my plans, but for the time being I felt it was best to give him a chance to go out on loan."

KIERAN Murphy has joined Crawley Town on a one-month loan.

The young defender featured in five games, including two cup matches, during the early part of the season.

Danny Swailes' arrival limited his chances, so has joined Dons winger Mustapha Carayol for a short stint with Steve Evans' side.

Willy Gueret dives low to his left to push the ball away during the second half against Chester

Hail le hero

French goalie instrumental in keeping Dons on top of table

TAKE a bow Willy Gueret.

Goalkeepers do not tend to get a lot of recognition for their part in games and they are often the unsung heroes, but the Frenchman once again put on a superb display for MK Dons to ensure they beat Chester City 2-0.

A number of match-winning saves and his second penalty save in two weeks to make sure he kept his 11th clean sheet of the season and claim a place in the League Two Team of the Week.

When Paul Ince persuaded Gueret to leave Swansea and become the number one stopper at the Dons he knew the 34-year-old would be a key part in his promotion plans.

And the deadline day signing has become integral to a side which has been plagued by a few dodgy keepers in the past.

The back line almost writes itself week in, week out, but elsewhere competition for places is tough and it is a different story.

Ince faced the problem of whether to keep Jemal Johnson at wide left and leave out October's player of the month Lloyd Dyer.

However, he found his way around it by bringing Dyer back from suspension and pushing Johnson up front in place of Leon Knight – it is a healthy selection problem that other clubs in the league would love to have.

It proved to be a good decision from the Dons' boss as Dyer broke free to play a pass into the box which Johnson bundled over the line to give them their second following Mark Wright's first half strike.

Johnson's goal came shortly after Gueret had stopped John Murphy's stinging shot – the Blues were then again denied by the Dons' goalie when he went the right way to save Simon Yeo's spot-kick.

The Blues were once again left frustrated when Gueret managed to get his fingertips Kevin Ellison's late shot, which had the home fans on their feet, to seal the win and with it keep the Dons at the top of the table with a four point advan-

MK DONS

PAUL MITCHELL WRITES FOR YOU

EVERY good team is built on solid foundations and the team we have here at MK Dons this season is no different.

I have talked in the past about the different partnerships that have developed throughout the season and how this has made us a strong unit.

What I haven't touched on is that first rock the manager lies every week - Willy Gueret.

Don't get me wrong, I'm no expert on the crazy art of goalkeeping but I do know that good ones are hard to find. If you take a look back at the great teams of the past, one thing that stands out is that they have all had world class goalkeepers. Manchester United had Peter Schmeichel, Arsenal had David Seaman, Chelsea have Petr Cech.

What I think Willy has done this season is bring a calming and assured influence to the back line, leaving the defenders with total faith in his ability and dominance. This is priceless as we have seen to our cost over the years.

Also big credit has to go to goalkeeping coach Paul Heald who, as Willy would agree, has brought the best out of him so far.

To the game Saturday, where once again we were good in every aspect of our play. The main thing was that we walked away with a big three points off one of our biggest rivals so far.

A big well done has to go to Jemal for getting his name on the score sheet. I know he has been champing at the bit, but with the team playing so well it's hard to change anything.

INTERNATIONAL ENGLAND v BULGARIA U21

Five-star action as England U21s see off Bulgaria

Theo Walcott bursts through the Bulgarian defence

ENGLAND Under-21s made an impressive debut in Milton Keynes with a 2-0 win over Bulgaria to keep their UEFA 2009 Championship qualifying campaign on the right track.

The first international to be held at stadiummk proved to be a massive success with 20,222 fans gathering at MK Dons' home to be entertained by Stuart Pearce's side.

They have now won all five of their qualifiers without conceding and are flying high at the top of Group 3 with a place in the championships on the horizon.

Although the Young Lions never looked like reaching third gear in the first-half they took the lead through Gabriel Agbonlahor.

The highly rated Aston Villa striker went missing a few times during the game but he was in the right place at the right time to head home James Milner's cross four minutes before the break.

Moments late Bulgaria could have equalised when Nickolay

Gabby Agbonlahor and Matt Derbyshire celebrate England's first goal against Bulgaria U21s

Dimitrov's effort was cleared off the line by England defenders.

While there was a hatful of chances in the second half England did not seal the win until the 82nd minute when Theo Walcott won his side a penalty.

Arsenal's starlet and a firm fans favourite in MK was brought down by the Bulgarian keeper Nikolay Mihaylov and Milner stepped up to put the ball beyond his reach.

Dons chairman Pete Winkelman will hope the glittering tie is the first of many to take place at the UEFA 4-star stadium.

on the wrong end of a storming Lions performance which started with an early 11-3 and continued in the same manner throughout.

The Panthers managed to claw their way back into the first quarter narrowing the deficit at the buzzer to five points but it was in the second when the Lions ran riot.

They turned an 11-0 run to 36-20 to put themselves in a comfortable position at half way and leave the Panthers firmly on the back foot.

LaTaryl Williams tried to inspire his side to fight their way back into the game but the Lions kept up their dominance with another run of ten unanswered points and a 21-0 start in the final stanza prevented the Panthers from gaining any momentum.

On Sunday Macauley's side made it six in a row with an away win to Leicester Riders.

But they had their work cut out for them as they were forced to come from behind to take the points as a 15-4 opening to the match by Riders put the home side firmly in command. The Lions trailed by 28-16 and 46-33 at the end of the first two quarters before coming alive in the third.

Once Leicester had gone 50-33 in front the Lions had back-to-back three-pointers to spark 24-8 burst which got them to within one at the final break.

Runs of 7-0 and 6-0 in the fourth quarter then handed Lions the lead and despite a late 6-0 burst by Riders a Peter Heizer free throw sealed the win for the visitors.

■ THE Lions travel to Everton Tigers on Friday for a 8pm tip-off. On Sunday they travel to London Capital 5pm tip-off.

Early form deserts Lightning

MK LIGHTNING paid a harsh price for losing only their third league game of the season as they slipped down to fourth place in English Premier League table.

After setting an early pace Lightning are now being faced with the backlash of teams who are slowly finding form themselves.

But following defeat to Guildford Flames, who are now up to second place, Lightning had their spirits uplifted with a win over Romford Raiders in the Knock-out Cup.

On Saturday Lightning travelled to the Flames with a good record against them this year having beaten them three times in cup competitions.

However, they were caught off guard by Guilford's fast start and Rob Lamey put the Flames a goal in front after ten minutes to give them the edge at the break.

Lightning were a much brighter side in the second as they forced Guildford to defend some intensive pressure, but they were not getting the luck they deserved and found themselves two goals down going into the final period after Milos Melicherik doubled his side's lead.

Taras Foremsky then chose to score his first goal for the Flames three minutes into the third period to give them a three goal advantage but Lightning were quick to hit back.

It was Gary Clarke who finally found Lightning's way through to goal two minutes later with a little bit of help from Adam Carr and Toni Alasaarela.

With eight minutes remain Adam Radmall narrowed the Flames' lead when Clarke played him through on a power play.

Just as it looked like Lightning could form the comeback Foremsky notched up his second to ensure the Flames took the points.

MK were able to bounce back from the loss with the important cup win over Wightlink the following day.

Mikko Skinnari gave Lightning the perfect start as they took advantage of a power play to take the lead eight minutes in, Alasaarela then joined in to put the side 2-0 up at the break.

Lightning continued to dominate proceedings with Matt Towalski adding the third a minute into the second period before Ross Bowers struck 12 minutes later.

The Raiders hit back through Shaun Wallis on 34 minutes although Lightning were still in full control.

A disputed second from Andrius Kaminskas pulled the Lightning's advantage back to two but Kurt Irvine rounded off the scoring to give MK a 5-2 win.

■ LIGHTNING host Sheffield this Saturday with face-off at 7pm and they travel to Wightlink for Sunday for their 5.30pm face-off.

LOCAL RUGBY ROUND-UP

ROUND three of the EDF Senior Vase ended in heartache for MK as they lost 11 - 30 to the Old Centralians and crashed out of the cup.

MK were put to the test from the offset with the Centralians' hard running centres trying to open up gaps in their defence, and after holding them out following substantial pressure MK shot themselves in the foot by conceding two penalties which put them 6-0 down.

MK responded with Andrew White, on his debut, kicked a penalty before winger Mads Jensen scored in the corner to give the side a two point lead.

The try seemed to inspire the MK backs and Dan Walker almost emulated his team mate only to have his run stopped ten metres from the line by the Centralians fly-half, but White converted a penalty to give MK something from their possession.

Stuart Tomkinson, coming on as a blood replacement, made an immediate impact in the game for all the wrong reasons. The number eight was sent to the sin-bin after just minutes on the pitch for killing the ball and the Centralians took advantage scoring a converted try under the posts for the half-time lead.

The second half was much the same with Old Centralians running in their third try just five minutes into the restart, with their fourth coming shortly after.

MK used their substitutions wisely and were beginning to look a better side for it but when Andrew Poole broke through field a lack of support cost them a chance to post points on the board.

The Old Centralians put the final nail in the coffin minutes from time with a final unconverted try to knock MK out.

Webber stays

MARK Webber has dismissed rumours that Fernando Alonso may force him out of the Red Bull F1 team.

The Milton Keynes racing outfit have been linked to the former world champion following his split with McLaren last month.

But the Aussie driver, who has already signed up to Red Bull for another year, insisted his immediate future is with the team alongside David Coulthard.

"I'll be driving at Red Bull next year," Webber insisted. "It will be nice to be in the hunt next year, and if we can start the season the way we finished it we will be doing well.

"Personally I was very happy with how I drove and even though it didn't reflect on the scoreboard, I was pleased with the progress our team made this year."

Poulter hits top twenty

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

GOLFER Ian Poulter has broken into the world's top 20 for the first time after clinching the Dunlop Phoenix tournament and £177,000 in prize money.

The Milton Keynes resident picked up his first title of the year in Japan after holding off some intense pressure from fellow Englishmen Luke Donald.

Poulter shot 69 to finish an 11-under-par 269, with Spaniard Gonzalo Fernandez-Castano (68) claiming second on eight-under. Donald (71) and Japan's Shingo Katayama (68) were tied on third.

At the start of the final day Poulter had a two-stroke lead but playing partner Donald went level after six before a double-bogey two holes later ended his title challenge.

Following the brief scare Poulter then went on to be unchallenged in the final ten holes which then allowed him to claim his ninth career victory, his first outside Europe.

"I was very much aware that this was the last stroke play event of the year. It's a lovely feeling to win again, and it's so nice to come and do it in Japan," Poulter added, "I waited a long time this year to win a tournament."

The 31-year-old is instantly recognisable to fans across the world due to his extravagant hairstyles and stylish clothes but his form on the golf course has been somewhat inconsistent.

However, he has had one of his most successful and steady years on the green, something which has helped propel Poulter to 20th place in the world rankings, his highest ever position, replacing Trevor Immelman.

"I have played very steady all year. I've felt comfortable all week this week."

"It would have been nice to know exactly why because if you could do that every week, you could get into that winning position every week. I'm happy to play good golf when I am under pressure and when I really have to win."

Since 2003, after moving to MK from Stevenage, Poulter has been attached to Woburn Golf Club as their touring professional and recently held his wedding at the venue.

There is no rest for the wicked as the World Cup starts tomorrow in China where Poulter will line up with Justin Rose.

Should he continue his form into the near future Poulter should be a serious contender to win a major tournament next year.

On song: Ian Poulter of England waves to the crowd after making a shot on the 18th green during the final round of Dunlop Phoenix Tournament in Miyazaki, Japan
